

South Bay seeks city seal to complement slogan

SOUTH BAY—The design of a city seal to complement the city's slogan of being "The Crossroads of South Florida" is the object of a city-wide contest announced Tuesday by the South Bay City Commission.

Mayor Don Tanner brought the contest before the commission, saying he would like to get everybody in the city involved, and said a seal has been a dream he has harbored for a long time.

While all the details haven't been worked out, the commission agreed to hold a contest beginning immediately and lasting through Sept. 1, with the winning design bringing an award of $100 and $75 and $50 prizes for second and third places.

There was some discussion about the rules to be laid down for the contest but Tanner stressed he didn't want the entire criteria for the entries to be based on a finished product, that ideas were the important thing and the final artwork could be taken care of later.

Tanner said at first he didn't think city commissioners, city employees or their families should be eligible to enter the contest but after City Clerk Virginia Walker and City Fire Chief Jimmy McRae said they didn't think anyone should be excluded from taking part, the commission decided to only limit entrants to residents of the city.

The commissioners tentatively decided they would be the final judges but during discussion after the meeting, the possibility of the commission picking three or more finalists, with the final selection being made by the public during the city election in September was brought up as a possible alternate.

The city's slogan was chosen in a similar contest in 1950 or 1951, when Mayor Tanner said he was a sixth grade student at South Bay Elementary School.

South Bay first on solid waste

SOUTH BAY—South Bay became the first of the three western Palm Beach County cities Tuesday night to formally accept the inter-local agreement which will form the basis for setting up a $3.1 million solid waste disposal facility to serve all the Glades.

The Tuesday evening action committed the city a partnership with Palm Beach County, the Palm Beach County Solid Waste Authority and the cities of Belle Glade and Pahokee to work together on the regional disposal system.

It followed hard on the heels of an announcement Monday night by Solid Waste Authority Executive Director Tim Hunt that the Farm Home Administration (FmHA) is interested in supplying approximately 60 percent of the funds for the project.

Hunt told members of the Budget and Policy Committee, the group which is setting up and will administer the facility, that Charles Anderson of Barker, Osha and Anderson, the engineering firm which did the preliminary study for the project, has been contacted by the FmHA.

Hunt said Anderson has been attempting to find federal and state funding for the project and Hunt said he has a "gut feeling" that when the FmHA makes its formal proposal, which should come at any time, the committee will have to move fast in its application because he believes, although he hasn't been told, there will be a July 15 deadline.

"I think someone has some funds he has to get rid of before the end of the federal fiscal year," Hunt said. He went on to say the FmHA funds would only cover 60 percent of the project because any benefits accruing to Belle Glade would have to be delayed.

There has been much effort expended to qualify Belle Glade for FmHA funds but a bureaucratic rule set up by the federal agency disqualifies cities with more than 10,000 population.

"This will still bring down the tipping fees by 60 per cent, and that means about $10 or $12 per ton," Hunt said. The estimated cost, with no federal help, has been estimated at about $21 a ton.

South Bay's acceptance of the interlocal agreement Tuesday night was forecast by Budget and Policy Committee member Don Tanner but newly named member Billy McKinistrie of Pahokee indicated there could be some delay before Pahokee would be ready to sign, if they would sign at all.

McKinistrie said he has received a copy of the study report submitted on the project but doesn't understand it yet. He and Hunt agreed to a private meeting later for an explanation of the entire project.

Another matter which came up before the committee when it met Monday was the addition of Belle Glade City Commissioner William Gear to be solid Waste Authority and the Budget and Policy Committee.

Hunt said he had gotten to the Palm Beach County League of Municipalities too late to bring Gear's name up as a candidate to replace City Commissioner Kenneth Harris, who resigned recently.

He said he is now submitting Gear's name to the League for nomination. The final approval of Gear would be made by the Palm Beach Legislative Delegation.

BELLE GLADE—A petition urging the Palm Beach County School Board to reconsider accepting School Superintendent Dr. Joseph Carroll's resignation and extend his contract beyond the present cutoff date of June 30, 1978 began to make the rounds in Belle Glade Tuesday.

Glades General Hospital and the Palm Beach Blood Bank, Inc. according to an announcement this week by Glades General Administrator Ben Clarke.

The local branch of the blood bank, which began accepting donations Monday from a number of Glades residents, is still located in Glades General but is now tied in to a national network through the American Association of Blood Banks, through which individuals may donate blood for a friend or relative.

The local facility, which was transferred to the County Blood Bank Monday, will be open for donations from 2 to 8 p.m. each Monday. Clarke said he hopes the evening hours will make it more convenient for individuals to take a half hour to donate.

In a joint statement, Clarke and tor of the Palm Beach Blood Bank, said the blood bank hospital merger had been made to supply Belle Glade and the surrounding communities with necessary blood and assure the hospital would always be adequately stocked for future needs.

Under the auspices of the county facility, the local blood bank will be managed by Janet Kennan, R.N., who will take donors, and Patricia Seawalt, receptionist.

The transfer means, in effect, that beginning this week, the hospital will receive its blood needs from local donors as well as from the Palm Beach Blood Bank, Inc.

All other transfusion services, such as cross-matching, laboratory blood work and transfusing patients, will be carried on by Glades General Hospital technicians as usual.

City jail

Who gets hoosegow?

BELLE GLADE—A stream of visitors through the City Jail indicated the interest of county officials in keeping the lock-up open after the city stops operations in two weeks but county commissioners still obviously want the state to assume control of the city facility.

Shortly after the May 23 decision by the City Commission to close the jail in 30 days in the wake of a state inspection, Sheriff Richard Wille indicated interest in a county takeover but said the decision would be up to the county commission.

Wille and three of his aides toured the city facility Monday afternoon and told Police Chief Charles Goodlett he expected to bring a proposal from the county commission to the city commission, "tomorrow (Tuesday) or by next Tuesday."

Tuesday, after Wille and John Duval, chairman of the county Criminal Justice Planning Unit which had been charged with finding another 150 beds for county prisoners, made presentations to the commission, the commissioners directed Duval to check into the cost of bringing the city jail up to state standards.

Commissioner Bill Bailey said later, however, "it was generally agreed the state should have the Belle Glade jail since they use it the most."

Goodlett had reported two weeks ago to the Belle Glade City Commission the city had housed only three bona-fide city prisoners in the jail in the preceding month, while there had been a daily population of about 85 county and state prisoners.

Duval, along with Jerry Mahoney of the County Engineer's office, and state prison inspector Ted Keys, who filed the report which made the city commission decide to close the jail, toured the facility.

Goodlett said he didn't go along on Duval's tour and the group was "noncommittal" when they left.

The decision to close the Belle Glade jail aggravated the situation with the crowded Palm Beach County Jail, with Sheriff Wille commenting his office would have to be responsible for the daily transportation of prisoners from the Glades to the county jail unless a Glades holding facility is kept open.

He told the county commissioners he had no idea where the money to pay for that transportation, or to pay for the use of jail space in city facilities owned, by the cities of Lake Worth and West Palm Beach, would come from.

The county commissioners, as part of the overall crowding problem, authorized negotiations with Lake Worth for the housing of an average 37 prisoners and with West Palm Beach for housing 60 prisoners while another 56 would be moved to the County Stockade.

Meanwhile, although the county expressed interest in

Gartner named Palm Beach County CD director

BELLE GLADE—City Community Development Director George Gartner resigned his position Monday morning and announced he would be chosen Housing and Community Development Director for Palm Beach County.

George Gartner

Gartner, who was hired by former City Manager William Malery, III in November 1974 to open the city's CD program, opened the office with a staff of three, including himself. He leaves June 20 head of a staff of nine.

"From three to nine sounds like a lot," Gartner said in his office Monday, "but we've only increased the administrative staff by one. The other five are skilled workers such as carpenters, plumbers and electricians who do work in the field.

"As a matter of fact," he pointed out, "we do all our own home rehabilitation work except roofing. That we contract out."

And in the three years Gartner has headed the city's program, he said a total of 54 interviews have been held, some with persons who for one reason or other weren't eligible as participants; have totally rehabilitated ten homes, erected five new homes, have two new homes being built, have four more homes under rehabilitation and two new homes being built; two on the waiting list and four being processed.

"Besides that," Gartner said, "we've bought ten acres of land for the new city park, rebuilt the Lake Shore Civic Center and working to develop the park as well as completely rebuilding Southwest Ninth and Tenth Streets.

"We've had a very successful program here," he said, "and without a single exception, I've had outstanding support from the city commissioners and from the citizens. I think whoever comes in as a replacement will find a good atmosphere in which to work."

During his tenure as Belle Glade CD director, Gartner came up with innovative methods for home rehabilitation when federal regulations seemed to have him boxed in.

One of those new ideas came up when the price for repairing one home was more than the home was worth. Since he couldn't build a new home but the price of relocation during repairs was included in the grant, he simply relocated the family into a new prefabricated home on the original site.

Gartner said the one item he's really proud of is that every one of the program participants have disproved earlier fears by maintaining their property once the rehabilitation work has been accomplished.

"There was one exception," he said, "but we kept after him and now he's keeping up with everything. I really have the citizens committee (Citizens Advisory Planning Committee) to thank for that. They were determined we'd have some assurance that once the work was done, it wasn't going to be allowed to run down."

One of the reasons the homes have been maintained is a new wrinkle no one in the nation had attempted before.

Our best wishes go out to Iz. For years, the dean of the Glades journalists has been Iz Nachman, Glades bureau chief for the Palm Beach Times.

Iz was hospitalized last week from an apparent stroke and his absence from his regular beat is missed by people all around Lake Okeechobee.

Iz is one of the hardest-working newspapermen I have ever run across. In a business where the hours are often long indeed, he has put in more than most.

When I was in Cleveland and Moore Haven, it was with a deep sense of embarrassment that quite often, Iz would beat me to a news story miles away from his Belle Glade office.

A good newsman builds a network of sources and tipsters and Iz's network is second to none. When I moved over to this side of the lake, it didn't take long to realize it is the best network I have ever seen. Bar none.

He created this news resource by simply being Iz, a personable guy who does his dead level best to be where he says he will be at the time he said he would be there.

People have a lot of respect for Iz because of his just reputation for objectivity and solid, factual reporting.

We join the rest of the Glades in wishing Iz a speedy recovery and a sincere "hope you'll be back on the job soon."

I wandered into Hughes Pharmacy the other day to pick up a pack of cigarettes and Joe Hughes called my attention to an unusual item he has on "special sale."

It's a parachute, priced well above my means.

Not that I want a parachute, mind you. I've done some crazy things in my life, but never jumped from an airplane.

Anyway, Joe brings a little excitement into his existence ever so often, by plunging into the depths of the ocean with scuba gear and free falling from mile up with his special parachute.

Couldn't help but ask Joe why he had the parachute on sale and after ten minutes of conversation, it boiled down to his having too many irons in the fire.

You've got to admit he's a goer. Once a month or so, he goes to Atlanta to play soldier with the Reserve. In between he's a patrolman with the Belle Glade Police Auxiliary.

Then came the fatal question: "How do you manage to do all this, Joe? My wife makes me stay home and babysit all the time."

Joe leaned over the counter, edging his eyes back towards his better half and whispered quietly: "I'm the head of my household."

And after I read this, I realize this maybe you can pick up a good deal on a couple of used scuba tanks.

Banks have found their way into the news over the past week.

Wayne Mikel at the Bank of Belle Glade announced that institution's intentions of applying for a branch for the South Bay area, which will undoubtedly be appreciated by their South Bay customers.

In Pahokee, Rupert Mook of the Bank of Pahokee, announced his bank was extending its office hours until 6 on Friday afternoons.

Jim Helvy, ace Pahokee printer, will be pleased with those new hours, since I have to admit there have been times when the Pahokee payroll hasn't made it to the office before the bank closed.

I think these two banks, as well as scores of other businesses in the area, are working to bring increased convenience to their customers.

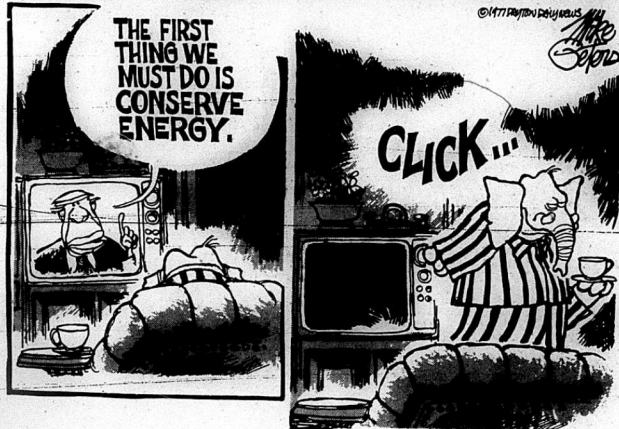

Today, businesses that have a heavy investment in manpower, equipment, buildings, and such are looking more and more toward improving service to their customers.

And they are the ones that will stay in business in years to come. The fly-by-nighters are finding consumer awareness is taking a large toll from their profits.

If you don't believe all this, then ask Lou Harris, president of the famous Harris Polling group. These were things he said only recently at a press convention workshop.

Banks and retail businesses aren't the only ones that must abide by these rules. So do newspapers. We at the Herald, Observer, and Shield are aware of them and are working to bring our readers and advertisers increased service in all our operations.

Gartner's challenge

George Gartner said it was a tough decision to resign his position as Belle Glade Community Development Director and accept the more prestigious Housing and Community Development Director's position for Palm Beach County.

Admitting the lure of the greater challenge and responsibility of the county position, along with what must be higher pay and more prestige, Gartner said it wasn't easy to give up "the best job in the city."

Well, we have ambivalent feelings too; those born from the joy of seeing a friend move ahead on one hand and the regret of losing a good man on the local scene.

Because if George Gartner enjoyed the best job in the city, it was largely because that's what he made it. He was hired in 1974 by the city to set up the Community Development Program and he's left his stamp on every phase of its operation.

After the flurry

EDITOR'S NOTE—Americans traditionally love independence and newsmen traditionally love a good story but sometimes the price can get awfully high and that story doesn't always get printed. Such was the case in the following article by Larry Nunn, reprinted from the South Florida Water Management District newsletter. Take it away Larry.

In late July, 1976, the media of South Florida had a brief flurry with one of the classic stories of journalism that rates only a little behind the "man bites dog" example taught budding journalists to bridge the vastness of news stories.

This classic story is about the little old lady who sits nonchalantly in various types of chairs promising to stop progress. Over the years newspapers have shown the typical lady lying in front of bulldozers, sitting in front of construction crews on highways, standing in front of contractors building dams, and sitting, lying and standing in front of just about everything.

In July the media had its classic story. Ms. Ellen Curtis leaned back in her lawn chair on a doomed footbridge crossing the Tamiami Canal, about 10 miles west of Miami, and shouted: "down with progress in the Everglades". Holding a sign that read, "Help Save Our Bridge" she vowed to remain at mid-bridge until the Army Corps of Engineers and the Central and Southern Florida Flood Control District abandoned plans to widen the canal, which separated the highway from her airport rental service.

The bridge was built in 1961 on Flood Control District land under a permit issued by the FCD. The permit had a clause stating that the bridge would be removed when the canal was widened. The time had come. The canal had to be widened to meet a plan that will provide additional water to Everglades National Park and South Dade County. In spite of the permit contract, Ms. Curtis refused to move.

About one week later the FCD filed a suit against Ms. Curtis in the circuit court, seeking damages for delay of contractors in working on the project. The court ruled that the FCD could proceed with their work and take down the bridge, but did not grant the District the requested funds expended because of the delay.

During the April FCD Governing Board meeting the final chapter of the "classic story" was written. This time there were no television cameras grinding away—there were no flash bulbs popping—there were no headlines in any of the media. Only a few even remembered the headlines of July. The ending was all summed up in three lines on the Governing Board agenda that read: "Consideration of authority to pay the cost in the amount of $4,200 for a delay in construction of Levee 29 Borrow Canal Enlargement caused by the Coopertown Bridge incident."

Everything was the same. The bridge had been removed. The canal widened. The only difference was that once again the taxpayers of South Florida had to dig in their pockets to pay the $4,200 bill.

And considering the caliber of that operation compared to the track record of the county's program leaves the distinct impression the county came out ahead on Gartner's decision. Gartner has not only run a successful program, he has proven adaptable and innovative where others in other areas have bogged down under the mass of red tape and federal regulations imposed in any program of this type.

Some of those wrinkles have brought attention from as far away as Atlanta, California and Washington, D.C. Such as the unique answer to the problem seen everywhere in such programs of deterioration of the housing once it has been rehabilitated.

Nowhere else had the director of a Community Development Program or the old Neighborhood Development Programs been farsighted enough to set up classes in home repair and to invest another $50, along with the thousands used to renovate homes, to give the homeowners tools, literally, to keep up their property with simple repairs.

We're sorry to see George Gartner leave Belle Glade but at least the Glades hasn't seen the last of him. As head of the county effort, he should be making his imprint on projects in the unincorporated areas as well as in projects in South Bay and Pahokee.

Keep Carroll

We're glad to see Marvin Unwin's petition calling on the school board to reconsider its June 1 action and extend School Superintendent Joseph Carroll's contract beyond June of next year.

Carroll has brought a professional expertise to Palm Beach County which was sorely needed in the wake of the political battleground the county's educational system had begun.

No one could have brought total order out of the chaos that existed here in the time Dr. Carroll has had to work on the problems but the schools have undeniably progressed and a number of programs have been instituted which should carry our schools even further out of the morass they were in.

More to the point, Carroll spent more time in the Glades and gave more attention to Glades educational problems in his first five months than had been expended by all the superintendents for the five years preceding his assumption of office.

As Marvin Unwin put it, we in the Glades have no representation on the school board. That was assured last November by the election of John Sansbury and Sansbury has acknowledged as much.

There is at least some plan afoot now to set up a separate district to get a Glades representative on the board but we can't count on it. Dr. Carroll is all we have for the time being and he's all we can count on. It's only right he be able to count on us.

I don't believe we'll hurt Mr. Unwin's feelings in the least if The Belle Glade Herald helps him out with his petition. Anyone wanting to register their feelings can write the Herald at P.O. Box 760 or come in and we'll have a copy in the office.

Dear Sir:

The Glades Walk-A-Thon is over and we would like to thank all the children who took part in the walk, and especially the ones who collected the extra time to collect their pledges. Belle Glade had 17,118.09 pledged and collected and turned in $13,351.34.

We would like to thank all the merchants who helped us put this together with their donations and the clubs that furnished the sandwiches and then helped collect all the pledges.

Because of you, Walk-A-Thon 7 was a big success. Thanks again Mr. and Mrs. Jim Huggins, Co-chairmen Glades March of Dimes Walk-A-Thon

CRACKER CRUMBS

BY DEAN JONES

Mmmmmmm! When things get drastic, seems like some people start taking drastic measures.

Like that school superintendent up in Chicago last week who found that half the eighth graders couldn't read on an eighth grade level. So he up and flunks half the eighth grade.

Albert A. Briggs is a man after my own heart, he is, he is. Out of a total of 1,289 eighth graders, he found 678 couldn't score a minimum of 6.5 on the Iowa Test of Basic Skills when the national norm was 9.8.

Maybe we need an Albert A. Briggs in Palm Beach County. Maybe Chicago needed an Albert A. Briggs before this. Maybe those eighth graders and their parents will build a monument to Albert A. Briggs up there in Chicago.

Because, believe it or not, Briggs was quoted in the wire story as saying he had heard almost no adverse reaction. See there, those yankees may not be as dumb as we give them credit for. At least they know when their kids fail school they may be doing them a favor.

Which is smarter than some Southerners I know. "Lissen here, y'all can't fail mah keed. That's traumatic. Whu'ch'all tryin' to do, give mah kee'd a trauma? Sides, you gone make me a disgrace. How'm ah gonno look mah neighbor in the eye when his keed passed and mine flunks? Ah'll pound yo' head!"

But it ain't really like that anyway. People have been reading so much by Spock (the doctor, not the pointy-eared one) and all the psychologists about how much psychological damage it does to a kid to be held back a grade in school they don't stop to realize their kid can't even read the stuff to know they oughta be damaged.

So the kid goes on his happy way through school, being socially passed from one grade to another (actually, I always did think that was just an excuse to get Junior out of the teacher's hair and pass him and his illiterate schoolmates on to the next grade).

Let Miz Jones up there in the ninth grade handle it. Those smart aleck high school teachers don't know what kinda troubles we get back here in junior high. Besides, I'm tired of Junior and L.C. and that spitball shobin' clog, Billy Ray and all their shenanigans.

Until an Albert Briggs comes along, or an AFL test which shows half the juniors at Glades Central aren't ready to do more than dig ditches in a society that's using mechanical ditchdiggers. We don't need any more George Gartner operators. And that's when somebody calls a screaming halt to the whole operation and yells, "stop and clear." Wait a minute! How come my junior can't read? He's so ignorant he don't even know he'd be traumatized if you were to hold him back in the eighth grade.

Matter of fact, I ain't too sure he knows what grade he's in anyway."

And if that doesn't happen, someone's gonna start screaming we're supporting fourth and fifth generation families on welfare.

And people are going to start screaming, "Albert A. Briggs, where are you now that we need you?"

FOLLOW THE LEADER REMEMBER when as children you played the game, "Follow the Leader", and the only danger was that you just might fall off the fence and hurt yourself. It was the risk and danger that made you want to prove to all that you were just as brave and strong as the leader. Most of the gamblers were just fun and nobody got hurt.

BUT—then came the day when the leader turned out to be the bully of the neighborhood, who led you further away from home and over greater obstacles to a higher and more desirable place. You grew faint from fear, fell and got hurt; then you were carried home to a mother's loving care.

NOW, years later, are you still playing the game? Remember this game: This one is in the plant or office where you work, your church is in the club, city, county and state. Oh yes, even far away on the banks of the Potomac River.

THESE: Study and examine the motives of all who try to set themselves as your leaders. If you are not careful, these leaders could turn out to be the bullies of your childhood days.

To be a good American you must be positive in your judgment. SUPPORT YOUR AMERICA!

Many of you who have had occasion to travel outside municipal limits lately have started to meet our May and June invasion of love bugs. This invasion will continue for another four to six weeks and then will re-occur again in late September.

Love bugs are very small, black flies with a red thorax. They are native to Florida, but until recently they did not occur in large enough numbers to attract much attention. The large outbreaks of the mating flies occurred in northern Florida in the late 1960's and, have progressed southward each year until they are now extending over most of all of southern Florida.

Adult love bugs are harmless to people and do not sting or bite. They do not injure ornamental plants since their primary food is nectar and pollen of some of our various flowers. The problem that they create is that when they are flying around during their mating flights large numbers of these hover near highways and are splattered onto windshields and radiator cooling fins.

Windshields covered with these insects obscure drivers' vision and when the insects fly off are extremely heavy enough of them may clog the radiator cooling fins and cause overheating. The bugs that are splattered on the car finish will also eat away the paint if they are not cleaned off before they dry.

Since the love bugs primarily fly only during daylight hours you can avoid having them splatter on your car by traveling during nighttime hours. They also do not become active until late morning so it is still possible to travel early in the morning, up to 9 or 10 a.m. and not have a large number of these flies in the area.

There are a number of ways you can protect your car finish from damage caused by the love bugs splattering on the paint job. Some people will spread a light film of baby oil or mineral oil over the front of the hood, above the windshield, and on the grill and bumper. This way the insects can be washed off or wiped off relatively easily without damaging the car's finish. If you wax the car, the wax will help protect the car finish also.

There are large, fine, plastic mesh screens available also that can be placed over the grill and radiator of the car and they will prevent the insects from being drawn into the radiator fins and causing overheating.

Control of these love bugs by spraying with insecticides is a generally thought to be impractical because they occur over such a large area. They do not appear to have a large number of natural predators or parasites that will significantly reduce the large populations, so we can expect an increase in the amount of these in succeeding years.

After the mating flights the love bugs lay eggs in or on the soil in decaying vegetation. The larvae feed in the decaying vegetation and after they mature they transform into pupae, emerging as adults about one week later.

CONSTRUCTION STUDENTS at Lake Shore Middle School are in the middle of their final project for the first year of the classes as they put the finishing touches on a utility shed in the workshop taught by John George, inspecting the work above. George said the 28 boys in the class took about five weeks to build the plywood structure and used all the carpentry techniques used in building a typical frame house. George said he started the construction class for eighth graders after they showed particular interest in woodwork shop last year. And now the shed is built? George said he is looking for a buyer and expects bids to start at $150.

Senior citizens visit Walt Disneyworld

The meals served at the Pahokee Center are catered by the Mid-America Food Services, Inc., provided by the Palm Beach County Nutrition Program funded under Title VII of the Older Americans Act.

THE DUDA DANDIES softball team members Marylynn Thompson, Brooke Tuell and her sister, Kathy Tuell, along with coach Karen Hansford, were pushing cakes and

Butler leads in home runs

PAHOKEE—Ted Butler took the lead in the home run race in the Pahokee Mens Softball League this past week by hitting six home runs in one game, bringing his total to eight.

The Memorial Day games were Foodway and Hatton battling to an 11-2 win for Hatton. Hatton led the game all the way by scoring early in the first inning with two runs on hits by D. Branch and J. Stenbeck. Their biggest scoring attack came in the second inning with six runs on five hits. M. Dodgson led off the inning with a single followed by R. Goodson who also got a single. Singles by G. Tucker and E. Crosby and a double by D. Hilyer made up the five hits.

Foodway's only threat came in the sixth with a base hit by Earl Bain, a walk for J. Morris and an error to score their two runs. Donnie Hilyer of Hatton Bros. hit the game's only home run. Hilyer led Hatton's hitting with three hits in four times at bat. Roy Goodson and Gib Tucker each went two for three.

Hilyer and Lee met Wedgworth in what promised to be a very exciting second game. However, the game went down in the books as incomplete due to heavy rains and will be re-played at a later date.

Union 76 defeated FBC 6-3 in Tuesday's first game. The game was scoreless until the fourth inning when FBC scored three runs and Union scored four. Union added two more runs in the last two innings to end the game.

Getting hits for FBC were E. Latour, K. Throop, J. Clark, R. Ellis, C. Hickman, and M. Cunningham. Garry Gillis led Union with two hits in two trips to the plate. D. Milliron, E. Lampi and J. Herring each went two for three. There were no home runs in this game for either team.

Chuck Henniger went four for four and slammed two home runs to lead PPI to a 15-5 win over Chem Air in Tuesday's second game. T. Rodriguez also hit two home runs for PPI. Billy Barnes had three hits for Chem Air and A. Parham and T. Miller each had two.

Thursday's games were both outstanding. PPI handed Foodway a resounding 58-12 defeat. Ted Butler was the game's outstanding player with his eight hits in nine at bats and his six home runs in one game. He hit two home runs in the first inning and again hit two home runs in the sixth to probably set a precedent. R. Dunnaway and R. Harvey each hit a home run for Foodway but Foodway was powerless against PPI's 40 of the game. Every player on PPI got at least one hit.

Hatton Bros. chalked up an impressive 11-5 defeat over Hilyer and Lee in the second game. Hatton was led by the hitting of R. Sans, D. Branch, D. Hilyer, J. Stenbeck, and V. Bush. Mike Frazier was three for three for Hilyer and Lee.

Reid speaks to Rotarians

BELLE GLADE—Palm Beach County Property Appraiser David Reid said that while new value notices taxpayers will receive by June 20, may reflect a higher property value, they wouldn't necessarily pay more taxes.

Reid told Belle Glade Rotary Club members the most important thing to them could be whether various taxing districts they're in, such as the city or the school board, decide to maintain the same millage his office certifies would provide the same income as the previous year.

And in any case, he told the Rotarians, if they believe their property has been appraised at too high a level, they should file a petition to have the appraisal lowered by July 14 to be sure they're assessed the proper amount in November.

Reid said that generally, cities and counties in the state have lowered their millage rate to about what has been certified while school boards have maintained the former year's millage rate to increase revenues.

"That's why the state legislature put a cap of eight mills instead of the ten mills they were once able to assess."

Reid also used the Rotary Club forum to say some of the legislation state property appraisers wanted to see passed to maintain, or regain, local control, was passed through the senate but was bottled up in the house of representatives. One of the most important of these, he said, was a bill which would have taken away the power of the state Department of Revenue to reject a county's tax roll on the ground it wasn't made up of full appraisal value.

Reid said the bill would have required the state agency to take their case before a circuit judge in the county and the burden of proving the appraisal was low would be on the state—not on the property appraiser in the county.

He said the Department of Revenue depended on a staff of five men in the 13-county South Florida area to reject his tax roll and require a re-evaluation.

"They can make mistakes and we can make mistakes," Reid said. "We're dealing with 221,000 individual items in the county. That's why, if you think your property has been over-valued, I'd like you to come down to the local office and let's talk it over reasonably."

DAVID REID tells Rotarians about latest news in Property Appraiser's office.

Local man is injured in automobile accident

PAHOKEE—J. Ray Hatton of 2927 Bacon Pt. Rd., Pahokee was involved in an accident Saturday at 1:58 a.m. in which the car he was driving rammed into a tree on Bacon Pt. Rd. causing extensive damage to his car and injury to himself.

Pahokee Police Patrolman Dale Mills reported that the accident occurred as Hatton was traveling south on SR 715. At approximately 45 mph, the vehicle ran partially off the right side of the road, traveled 51 feet, then came back across on the northbound lane traveling 105 ft. when it struck a palm tree. The impact caused the vehicle to slide around, coming to rest 38 feet east of the palm tree, Palm Mills said.

Pahokee Ambulance Service transported Hatton to Everglades Memorial Hospital for possible injury and he was later transferred to Good Samaritan Hospital in West Palm Beach.

Glenn's Wrecker Service is holding the 1976 four-door Mercury which was totaled in the accident. Charges are pending.

having the state take over operation of the city jail, Cecil Sewell, of the Florida Department of Defender Rehabilitation said from Tallahassee Tuesday the state traditionally does not lease any city owned facility in cases when the state would have to provide the staff.

"What we would like to see," Sewell said, "would be to get the county to staff it and we'd contract for so many beds." While he didn't rule out any possibility of the state assuming operation of the city jail, he did say the chances are slim.

Sewell said the only exception to the rule about the state not staffing a facility owned by the agency is a stockade in Quincy.

The state uses the Belle Glade Jail as a transfer point for prisoners being shipped to the southern part of the state. Sewell said the state has always had good relations with the city.

Closer to home, Chief Goodlett said he didn't know where the figure of $200,000 to upgrade the city jail to state standards came from but he didn't think the cost would be anywhere near that high.

"But I'm old fashioned," he said, "Our jail is kept clean and the prisoners are served good, wholesome food and we've always kept a record of our menus.

"I think that's all that should be required of a jail," Goodlett said. "I don't know of any city jail anywhere, or county jail for that matter, that has a playground for the prisoners."

South Bay keeps same insurance carrier Co

SOUTH BAY—The City Commission decided Tuesday night to continue using Connecticut General Insurance Co. as the carrier for group life and major medical insurance for city employees, with the stipulation all such business was to be brought before the commission in the future.

The decision came following a presentation by Prudential Insurance agent Hub Spooner in which Spooner said he was first accepted as a new carrier, and later rejected by A.R. Grigsby, City Finance Director.

Spooner produced an authorization for him to speak to city employees along with several applications from employees which he said were signed by Grigsby.

After he had signed up 17 employees, Spooner said Grigsby informed him he had decided to stick with the original carrier after the Connecticut General agent had upgraded the existing city policy.

Spooner said he persuaded Grigsby, however, to accept new figures from both him and the other insurance agent but Grigsby accepted the Connecticut General policy on behalf of the city employees without looking at Spooner's new figures.

Later, Spooner said, Grigsby agreed to a vote by the city employees on which company they wanted to do business with but the vote ended in an 8-8 tie.

When he asked to come before the city commission, Spooner said, Grigsby said he would prefer he didn't, "because they may not know as much about insurance as I do."

At that point, Grigsby said he hadn't made that comment but Spooner disagreed. Spooner then went on to explain how he had received permission from Mayor Don Tanner to come before the commission and state his case.

During the presentation, Spooner made a comparison of the two policies being offered the city and said they were "very similar" in benefits and cost, with Prudential costing slightly less.

Commissioner Woodrow "Woody" O'Neal said he was inclined to award the city business to Spooner, not because he was offering a better package but because, "of the way he has been treated."

He then went on to move the city stay with Connecticut General but stipulated in the motion that all future city business should be brought before the commission.

The motion passed, 4-0.

In other business, the commission: • Held off action on a new pension plan for employees because the commissioners weren't happy with the provision the employees, after ten years, could draw down not only their own portion, but all the city had contributed.

• Decided to split up the city's Community Development application for $260,000 for water system improvements and $15,000 for future planning to allow $100,000 for recreation (to buy land for a recreational center) and reduce the water system funds to $160,000.

• Approved a contract with South Shore Water Users to buy and sell water during emergencies.

• Approved a request to raise the pay for volunteer firefighters from $3 per hour for the first hour of fighting fires and $1.50 per hour after that and for $3 per hour for weekly training meetings; to a flat $3 per hour for fighting fires and $3 per session for monthly drills.

representative and Dr. Carroll is all we have."

Unwin, vice president of Pioneer Growers and an active member of the West Area Vocational-Technical Center Advisory Committee, said Carroll has worked closely with people in the Glades to upgrade education in the West Area.

"I've contacted some of the other members of the Vo-Tech Committee," he said but stressed that while the general reaction has been favorable, he is acting as an individual in circulating the petition.

"The petition endorses Dr. Carroll and his work," Unwin went on, "and asks the School Board to reconsider and extend his contract beyond next year."

"No one in this area has the expertise and experience to take over his job," he said, "and we taxpayers pay for that experience."

Green vs. white in almost anything goes

CANAL POINT—Almost anything went on Almost Anything Goes day, Friday at Kindergarten through sixth grade students of Glades Day Elementary celebrated the end of the school year with a party at the Canal Point Community Building.

Excited children raced and cheered as the green and white teams competed in several unusual events which culminated in the awarding of a trophy to the winning team - and that was the green team.

The Kindergarten students took part in a frisbee race and a trike race while the first through sixth graders had a shoe event in which they took their shoes off and placed them in piles and then ran to put their shoes back on, raced through an obstacle course and competed in a tug-of-war event. Those children were divided into two groups; the first through third graders and the fourth through sixth graders.

Mothers of the kids were probably as worn out as the youngsters as they kept the pace going and organized the events. The program was sponsored by the room mothers with room mother Chairman Ann Holt leading the activities. Other mothers who helped out were: Lyn Erinson, Gail McArthur, Edith Summers, Pasty Gamble, Pasty Hundley, Brenda Brewster, Diane Kennedy, Betty Fountain, Kay Korbly, Sandra McIntosh, Sandra Suggs, Joan Ramsey and

Mrs. Harvey Boris.

Teachers were also on hand during the morning program and refreshments were served before the kids returned to their classrooms. The trophy won by the green team was donated to the American Trophy Company of Ft. Lauderdale.

HURRY, HURRY, HURRY! was the sound of children's voices as the green and white teams of Glades Day Elementary School raced through an obstacle course of tires and boxes and pushed a box-carrying wheelbarrow to the end of the line so that the winning team could chalk up more points for the final trophy.

Gartner

Concerned about the past history of rehabilitated homes which were later allowed to deteriorate by the owners, Gartner arranged classes in home maintenance and repair as a part of the local Community Schools.

To complement the do-it-yourself class, and at the suggestion of then-Mayor Grear, Gartner invested another $53 in each home in the form of a tool kit which was issued to each participant.

The theory, as he explained at the time, was that so many of the participants historically knew nothing about home repair and even when they did know something, their incomes were so borderline they couldn't afford tools and materials to do simple repair jobs themselves, much less pay professionals to come in and do the work.

When he begins his tenure in the county position, Gartner will be filling the combined shoes of two officials, John Green, who is now Housing Director for the County and Ansell Jeffries, the former Community Development Division Director who was recently fired by County Building and Zoning Director Ray Liberti.

"John Green will become the assistant overall director," Gartner said, "and bring with him all his expertise in housing problems in the county."

But if Gartner is leaving the Glades to go to work for the county, his presence and influence will still be felt in the Glades.

Besides the in-house work to be done in unincorporated areas of the county he will be working closely with projects scheduled to take place in South Bay and Pahokee.

He said he expects the upcoming yearly budget to be somewhere in the vicinity of $2 million for both unincorporated areas and the 19 cities he will be dealing with.

Gartner is no stranger to the staff he will head, either. He said he has met and worked with a number of them and he respects them for a staff of professionals.

He said the decision to go to the county, although it represents a much more responsible position and comes in the form of a major step up, was still a hard one.

"It wasn't easy to give up what I consider to be the best job in the city," he said, "and it feels good to drive down Ninth and Tenth Streets. They're not the same streets they were a year ago."

Schools help in meals program

BELLE GLADE—Seven schools in the Glades will be participating in the County Summer Food Program for Children from June 20 to Aug. 12. Schools will be closed on July 4th.

The program is similar to the National School Lunch Program. It will provide nutritionally balanced lunches to needy children regardless of race, color or national origin during summer vacation when school breakfasts and lunches are not available.

All children 18 years and younger are eligible for a lunch at no charge. The programs are only approved for geographical and school areas where one third of the children qualify for free or reduced price meals during the school year.

Included in the program are Glades Central High, Gladesview Elementary, Lake Shore Middle, Rosenwald Elementary, Canal Point Elementary, East Lake and Pahokee High Schools.

All organizations wishing to participate in the Summer Food Service Program must provide adequate supervision by their personnel.

Commercial art class works for school, town

BELLE GLADE—When Glades residents see the display of Glades Central commercial art students now hanging in the Municipal Library, along with that of fine art students, teacher Harry Bloomquist says they're looking at work which has already been turned to profit.

"People don't realize it," Bloomquist said, "but commercial artists affect virtually everything that touches us...from ballpoint pens to the cars we drive, everything is designed by commercial artists.

"And that's what we're teaching the kids in the class," he said. He said his commercial art students design all the posters used to herald upcoming events at the school and have designed a number of signs used around the community such as the elf named

Tiny Tim which has become the symbol of the Belle Glade Beautification Committee.

Sports fans attending games at Memorial Stadium have also seen whether they realize it or not, another product of the commercial art department in the form of some pretty profitable signs which have been hung along the eastern fence of the stadium. Those 28 signs, advertising a variety of Belle Glade merchants, were sold as advertising to the merchants for $100 each and the school's athletic department was made $2,800 richer by the proceeds.

Meanwhile, the students helped themselves by charging a dollar each to print students' names on tee shirts and football jerseys, using the proceeds to pay for a trip to Norton Art Gallery in West Palm Beach and a dinner at the Red Lobster.

Bloomquist said he has experience at operating his own commercial art studio as well as teaching the subject. He said he stresses the fact commercial artists can go anywhere and find employment so long as they have the desire and talent, pointing out one of his students is now designing automobiles for Ford.

He said he hopes to have water facilities piped into his classroom soon so he can begin teaching some darkroom techniques.

Bloomquist said the Best in Show award for the display, which was judged for the Educational Fair held recently at Glades Central, went to Rudy Cox for "Blue Lady", with another Best in Show going to Michael Evans and Willie Young.

Other prizes included first place to Johnnie Bryant for Culotte Outfit, second to Rudy Cox for a portrait in pink and third to a squirrel done in pastels by Jose Lopez.

Honorable mention prizes went to Johnnie Bryant for a pastel portrait, a flowered blouse with dark background by Rudy Cox, a bird dog by John Bryant, yellow landscape by Patrick Raymond, roses by Rudy Cox, a still life by Jose Lopez and an air brushed portrait with blue blouse and gold earrings with no name attached.

The displays have been hanging in the Municipal Library all this week and will be taken down today.

Church to sponsor summer recreation

Feld said the skate board contest will be one of the first events to be held and will include a first prize of a $70 custom made board along with a paid trip to a Skate-a-Rama in Miami.

The baseball diamond is meant to be used for both baseball and softball, and added to the diamond itself, made from imported Georgia clay, Feld said night games may be featured once the lights are installed, which is expected to be before the recreation program begins.

Feld said the program, designed for anyone from 6 years old and up, will take place from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tuesday Wednesday and Thursday and he said he is looking for help from the community in transporting the kids to the church, located at 1316 W. Canal St. South.

He said the children are expected to bring their own lunches and Kool-aid will be available but soft drinks are also available for 25 (Continued on Page 7)

BELLE GLADE—The Glades CB Club, Inc. had its annual CB break May 22 at John Stretch Park in Lake Harbor.

"We would like to thank the Belle Glade, South Bay, Pahokee and Canal Point merchants that gave donations to help us with this break," Mrs. Huggins said.

I need the Answers to some SERIOUS QUESTIONS

Why am I here? What shall I do with my life? Where am I going? This young man is at the threshold of his adult life and needs the answer to some serious questions. Perhaps you find yourself pausing to take stock of your life and groping for direction.

The Church of the Living God tells the truth about man's life, death, and destiny. The truths learned there will set you free to live a more abundant, meaningful, and creative life. "And ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free."
John 8:32.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

TALLAHASSEE—Boat registrations for the 1977-78 period went on sale June 1, Harmon Shields executive director of the Department of Natural Resources, announced. He said all boats requiring registrations must be re-registered by July 1. Shields said pleasure boat owners should register their boats at their local tax collector's office, bringing their prior registration certificates and evidence that a title has been issued for the boat. "Most of the larger counties in the state send out renewal forms for boat owners, but the boat owner can save time and effort by simply renewing registration by mail," Shields said. He advised commercial boat owners to re-register their boats with the Department of Natural Resources, noting that they will be receiving their renewal applications by mail. Any new commercial boat owner may obtain applications from any of the District offices of the Florida Marine Patrol or any Marine Patrol office, according to Shields. The District offices are: District 1, P.O. Box 4395, Panama City; District 2, P.O. Drawer "P", Carrabelle; District 3, County Building, Crystal River; District 4, 525 Mirror Lake Drive, Fifth Floor, St. Petersburg; District 5, P.O. Box 356, Ft.
